About Wight & Company

Wight & Company provides a range of design, engineering and construction services that are easily “bundled or unbundled” to meet client and project needs. Our work spans a variety of sectors, including education, civic/cultural, government, recreation, workplace, commercial and transportation/infrastructure.

Wight is a unique firm. We bring multiple perspectives to each assignment—perspectives that pay dividends to our clients. For almost 30 years, we have been providing a better way to create innovative facility solutions for our clients. As a pioneer in Design Led-Design Build, we place our client’s interests at the heart of each project and simplify the complex process of bringing buildings and spaces to life.

Your Work is Our Passion

Creating spaces where students can thrive has become our passion. Our motivation and energy are fueled by the power of the end goal—to help build a foundation where today’s youth can grow, learn and succeed.

Our role is to listen, absorb, suggest, shape, design, engineer, and deliver—and we embrace it! As your partner, we create environments that help cultivate young minds and prepare them for the road that lies ahead. Whether a student’s individual path leads to college or directly into the workforce, we help you raise the bar by giving them the best place from which to commence that journey.

Inspiring curiosity

Learning Environments for the Future

Student achievement is at the forefront of educators' minds—and at the heart of our work. By finding the right balance of proven results, innovative thinking, and sustainable strategies in each design solution, we help school districts create highly customized, high-performance learning environments.

Preparing students with the necessary skills to be impactful global citizens is a daunting challenge. The future needs of the workforce requires that we help our clients equip students with creative problem-solving skills, collaboration opportunities, and the ability to disseminate information from multiple sources. Learning is more active and constantly evolving along with the needs of the classroom. The spaces we create support the energy and excitement that takes place in our schools on a daily basis.

A Fresh Approach for School Districts

Our unique Design Led-Design Build approach allows for a deeper exploration of innovative design solutions while providing real budget assurances and delivering a single-point of accountability. Pioneered for public sector clients, we place the project at the core of all decisions. Our approach provides real value by capitalizing on efficiencies in communications, enabling full competitive bidding and harnessing a team effort that strives to place more scope into projects.

Wight & Company is driven to make learning environments more engaging, healthy, safe and equitable. We help you make future-ready learning possible.
